

I have used wireless phones for many years and have stayed with a single provider to avoid changing my phone number. This has reduced competition for my business. I hope the FCC will enforce the existing regulation and require service providers to support number portability.